

Cambridge Degree Programme in Jewish-Christian Relations

16.02.2007

The Centre for the Study of Jewish-Christian Relations at the University of Cambridge, England, has announced revisions in its Master's degree program in Jewish-Christian Relations.

Cambridge Degree Programme in Jewish-Christian Relations

The Centre for the Study of Jewish-Christian Relations at the University of Cambridge, England, has announced revisions in its Master's degree program in Jewish-Christian Relations. The program, offered in conjunction with the Faculty of Divinity and the Institute of Continuing Education, offers the Master of Studies (MSt) degree. Studies may be carried on either onsite or offsite, with some courses taught online. The program is interdisciplinary in nature, including religious, biblical, philosophical and cultural studies, as well as history, political science and international relations. Financial aid is available.

Details of the programme.