Centre for Jewish-Christian Relations, Cambridge, England

The Centre is pleased to announce bursaries (scholarships) for study in Jewish-Christian Relations. The MA degree in Jewish-Christian Relations, validated by Anglia Polytechnic University, is an innovative multi-disciplinary programme. It can be taken in preparation for advanced research, for teaching or community work, or purely for interest's sake. Taught at the Centre for Jewish-Christian Relations (Cambridge), the MA is supported by excellent academic resources and a range of extra-curricular activities. Two bursaries are available for students pursuing full time MA studies in 2002-2003. One covers full fees and accommodation; the other, fees only. Appropriately qualified candidates of any age or nationality may apply. The closing date for the competition is 1st May 2002. There are additional bursary competitions open to applicants from Israel and Poland, administered by our partners in those countries (details available from the Centre).
