

Christian Theology and Interfaith Dialogue. London: SCM Press and Philadelphia: Trinity Press International, 1992

| Wiles, Maurice

This brief work revolves around a central question: "Can Christian theology develop a doctrine of other religions which sees religions other than itself as also falling within the economy of God in such a way that a Christian can with full propriety enter into dialogue with them in the expectation of receiving as well as offering truth from God?"