

Matyszak, Malgosia

Malgosia Matyszak works at the Addenbrooke's Hospital in Cambridge, England. She is a medical researcher specializing in the immune system, and has published over a dozen papers on the subject. She did her Master's Degree at the Jagellonian University in Krakow, and her D.Phil at Queen's College, Oxford. As does Maty, she has a City and Guilds qualification as a level 4 programmer in the C++ computer language, and also specializes in JavaScript and programming for the World Wide Web. Over the last two years she has been developing her expertise in online databases and dynamic web pages.