

The Crucifixion of the Jews, New York: Harper and Row, 1975

| Littell, Franklin H.

A disturbing and passionate book from an American Methodist theologian who was in Germany immediately after the Liberation. Particularly valuable as he is writing out of a free-church tradition (his major scholarly concerns are with the Anabaptists and other persecuted groups at the time of the Reformation). Nobody gets left off the hook, least of all various Protestant peddlers of 'cheap grace'.
