

SIDIC Catalog of Documents on Christian-Jewish Relations Now Available Online

31.12.2004

SIDIC, the International Jewish-Christian Documentation Service (Service International de Documentation Judéo-Chrétienne), has announced that its catalog of more than 6,000 documents on Jewish-Christian relations is now available online. SIDIC is a project of the Sisters of Sion order, which is devoted to fostering Christian-Jewish rapprochement and has collected documents on the subject since the Second Vatican Council in the 1960's.

Although the documents themselves are available only at the SIDIC documentation center at the Pontifical Gregorian University in Rome, the online catalog provides full bibliographical information, which may be of use to researchers anywhere in the world. The catalog, which includes a search function, may be accessed at www.sidic.org
